WE NOMINATE

Janice Morris Harsanyi, possibly this community's most versatile and hardest-working musician, who on Monday, April 11th—as the Princeton Symphony Orchestra rings down the curtain on its ninth successful season—will undertake an assignment only a handful of singers would venture. With Princeton composer Roger Sessions conducting the second American performance of his "Idyl of Theocritus," the diminutive 30-year old soprano, Trenton-born and American-trained, will be called upon for an operatic performance demanding a rare blend of intensity and stamina—some 40 minutes of continuous singing with orchestral accompaniment.

Mrs. Harsanyi, wife of the musical director of the Princeton Symphony, wears as many hats as her well-known husband, who serves as a departmental head at the Westminster Choir College as well as a lecturer in music in Princeton University. Widely sought as a concert singer, she is a visiting member of the faculty at Princeton Theological Seminary, where she combines a formal course in music with the direction of the Women's Choir, and also supervises the choral work in the Lawrence Township Presbyterian Church.

The daughter of a Presbyterian clergyman, and the youngest of five children in an extremely musical family, Mrs. Harsanyi "concertizes" extensively. In addition to giving Lieder recitals and oratorio performances, she has appeared as a soloist with the Philadelphia Orchestra conducted by Eugene Ormandy, Leopold Stokowski's Symphony of the Air and the National Symphony under Howard Mitchell. A knowing Princetonian recently described her as the "remarkable kind of musician who can perform with ease and naturalness any music that's set before her—anything from Bach to the ultra-modern Sessions."

Her engagement with Stokowski was just a year ago as soprano soloist at the United Nations in the initial American presentation of an oratorio by the Turkish composer, Adnam Saygum, an event attracting wide attention in musical circles. Last spring she also won plaudits in both Philadelphia and New York with Ormandy, portraying the role of Marguerite in Berlioz's "Damnation of Faust." This year, following the pre-Easter concert in McCarter Theatre, she will be featured on five different occasions with the Philadelphia Orchestra, including a concert in Manhattan's Carnegie Hall.

Mrs. Harsanyi, alumna of the Choir College and a member of its faculty from 1952 until 1958, who continues to make time for playing the viola in the University's Symphony Orchestra, contributes immeasurably to musical life in the Princeton Community. Several years back she helped "put over" the Symphony's stage production of the one-act "Trial of Lucullus," while last spring she sparked the Verdi "Requiem" jointly presented by the Symphony and the Westminster Choir. A fortnight ago she was the soloist for the joint concert of the Princeton University and Smith College Glee Clubs.

For sharing her noteworthy musical talents with a community that welcomes her concert appearances; for her dedication to the art often called "the happy art"; for distinguished service to Princeton musical organizations; she is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

This Is PRINCETON

HOW MUCH DOES IT COST?

To Educate a Princeton Child. Princeton citizens are proud of the excellence of their schools and they are willing to pay out tax dollars to buy that excellence. While other communities wrangle over school budgets and often dismiss them summarily at the polls, Princeton serenely passes its school budgets year after year, sometimes after hearings attended by no one but the school board.

This community's willingness to pay for education is sharply revealed by a recent report on the cost of public education in America. The national net expenditure per pupil this year is $292. In contrast, the per-pupil cost in the Borough in 1958-59 was $488.01 and in the Township, $411.

In the New York - New Jersey - Pennsylvania region, the average annual expenditure per pupil for the current year is $376. This is the highest expenditure of any region in the country, according to charts prepared by the Cost of Education Index—the report mentioned above.

Of course, statistics provide a wavering mirror for anyone who wants to see the reflection of a true picture. Even though the national average is $292 per pupil, about half of the nation's school districts spend more than that and about a quarter spend over $350. Also, as Dr. William Purcell, Township superintendent of schools points out, each state has its own formula for measuring per pupil costs, so that Princeton cannot necessarily point to Middletown, Conn., and say, "We've got better schools because we spend more."

Rule of Thumb: $400-Plus. According to Dr. Purcell, in the strip from Boston to Washington, D. C., a good rule of thumb is—$400-plus per pupil in the better school systems. (In some plush Westchester communities, it's over $500.)

The Index divides the country into nine regions and in each of those, it designates a "top tenth" of the school districts in that region. These are the districts that spend more than $431 per pupil, on a national average. In regions where the per capita income is high—and presumably New Jersey would fall into that category—a community would have to spend $429 per pupil to rank in the top tenth.

Princeton residents who would like to spend a cool spring evening by the fire with computer and notebook may write to the National Education Association, 1201 16th St., Washington, D. C., for a booklet called "Quality Education." In this pamphlet is a formula which a community can use to test the strength of its school system.

"Princeton exceeds this formula in every respect," Dr. Purcell reports.

WINTER IN ONE MONTH

It All Came in March. For the first dozen weeks of winter, the thermometer averaged so much above normal that weather statisticians went hunting for comparisons. It was, they reported accurately, the mildest winter on record since 1946.

As of March 1, the temperature had averaged 36.4 degrees, snowfall totalled only seven inches and there had been no ice for skating. As of March 3, more snow than had fallen all winter long blanketed the ground, averaging better than eight inches on the level and nearly a foot and a half in drifts.

Two days later, the thermometer shot down hill, and as schools closed for "spring" vacation, word went out that there was "black ice" (i.e., best for skating) on Carnegie Lake. It looked as if winter had come to stay.

More snow followed, and March temperatures averaged 24.2—almost 13 degrees below the normal for what is usually considered the real winter in these parts. This time, weather statisticians could find no comparisons: March, 1960, went into the books as the coldest on record, with a deficit in total average temperature that at one point approached 300 degrees.

The turn upward finally began on Monday. Even the day's minimum made good reading: the low of 34 marked the first time in six weeks that the thermometer had not gone below freezing.

When a high of 70 was recorded Monday, it represented a swing of 60 degrees from March 16th's low of 10. It was a weird swing, but no one would say it wasn't in the right direction.

PERSONALITIES

Walter B. Foster, 16 Hawthorne Avenue, a familiar part of the Princeton business scene for the past half century who is retiring this Thursday. Born in Bay Head, Mr. Foster began work here December 11, 1911, for the Princeton Bank and Trust Company, for the past 42 years has been in the insurance department of Walter B. Howe, Inc. Retiring as vice-president of the firm, he has also made a part of his careers service as Deacon and Elder of the First Presbyterian Church, membership in the Rotary Club and in Princeton Lodge No. 38, Free and Accepted Masons.

Karl M. Light, Cherry Valley Road, whose career (despite time devoted to his Princeton real estate firm) on Broadway and in television will be furthered this Thursday night with his appearance in Mary Roberts Rinehart's thriller, "The Bat." Helen Hayes heads the cast in the latest on the Dow Hour of Great Mysteries, scheduled for NEC-TV (Channel 4) from 9 to 10 p.m.

ROUND-UP

Those census forms that arrived in the mail last week gave parents of 14-year old daughters something of a start. . . .they may not consider their children of that age old enough to be married, but Uncle Sam does. . . .he's asking about the marital status of all persons born prior to March 31, 1946, no doubt with an eye to uncovering any recent romances in that age bracket between the Hatfields and the McCoys.

Saturday morning's test alert was considered "essentially satisfactory" by Civil Defense Director Geoffrey Sage. . . .all main arteries were clear of traffic and open to emergency vehicles if necessary. . . .fire and police vehicles were fully - manned by "stand-by" crews. . . .the principal lack of cooperation was noted in residential neighborhoods, where parents failed to bring their children inside.

A Princeton senior achieved a bit more than is considered normal this month when he not only completed his required thesis but sold it as a novel to two publishing firms, Charles Scribners Sons in New York and a British publishing house. . . .his fictionalized account of family relationships in the Allagash region of northern Maine, titled "The Golden Axe," runs to 70,000 words—50,000 more than most of his classmates have written in completing their academic requirements.

Diverse thoughts about the Princeton community are again recorded in Mailbox (page 21), with street excavations, the proposed Easter Parade, fluoridation and the recent "Coombs Case" all receiving comment. . . . Princetonians are laughing at the kangaroo who saw it was snowing and said, "I hate these days when the children have to play inside."

Ten Years Ago: TOWN TOPICS, March 30, 1950: deteriorating international relations led to plans to reactivate the World War II round-the-clock plane spotting posts, with an announcement that volunteers would soon be sought . . . Borough Council continued to study the possible installation of parking meters. . . .primary elections were in the news, with Gill Robb Wilson, Republican candidate for Congress from this district, announcing a Borough Hall appearance . . .Philip T. Carroll and Miss Mary Gill reported a 25 percent increase in funds raised for the March of Dimes over the preceding year as they netted $10,029.

In the world of entertainment, the Vassar Club of Princeton was preparing to sponsor the Blue Hill Troupe in "The Mikado" with Mrs. Harland F. Baker and Mrs. Richard W. Baker Jr. heading the committee. . . .the Playhouse was hooking "Young Man with a Horn," the story of trumpet-player Bix Beiderbecke starring Kirk Douglass, while the Garden offered John Payne, Jeffrey Lynn and Gail Russell in "Captain China."

In sports, Princeton was starting spring football practice, with the big problem finding a replacement at wingback for George Sella (the job finally went to a 165-lb. speedster, Billy Kleinsasser, who teamed beautifully with Dick Kazmaier to give the Tigers an unbeaten year). . . .at Hun School, PHS alumni Dave Ogonofski and Tom Cashill were bolstering the baseball team, while Princeton High Coach Morrill Shepard was looking for pitchers to supplement a staff headed by Al Moore and Bucky Osborne.

On the business scene, names now extinct included the White Elephant Shop at 247 Nassau Street, Oak Manor Kennels selling Cocker Spaniels on Route 1, Dr. Robert A. Stein, optometrist, at 186 Nassau Street and Cushing Motors selling Austins at 198 Witherspoon Street.

TAXI RATE RAISE ASKED

Borough Council to Consider. Borough Council will consider a taxi fare increase at its agenda meeting next Monday, acting mayor Richard A. Lester revealed at Monday night's special meeting. The increase proposed by the taxi owners would bring the basic rate from its present 50 cents to 75 cents for one passenger to any place within the Borough.

Most other rates would be raised proportionately, although the 25-cent daytime charge for additional passengers to the same destination in the borough would remain the same. The taxi drivers have also asked for a special night rate for additional passengers—presently there is only a senger night rate.

The proposed increase would be the first since 1947, when the basic rate was raised from 35 cents to 50 cents. Representatives of the Taxi Drivers Association presented the proposed increases to Mr. Lester's finance committee last Friday.

Mr. Lester announced that he had received the rate increase proposal while the Council discussed its one item of the evening, an ordinance to raise taxi fees from $25 to $40 and livery fees from $10 to $15. Action on the ordinance was postponed last week to give Mr. Lester time to meet with the taxi operators.

In announcing the proposed rate increase, Mr. Lester noted that if the Council acts favorably at its agenda meeting, the ordinance can be introduced on April 12, and the final action could be taken by the May meeting. Thus, the new rates would follow the fee increase by only a month.

Although the Council passed the fee-increase ordinance, Councilman Dan D. Coyle noted that this did not commit the Council to raising the rates as well. He came out strongly against raising the rates, noting that the fees do not cover the Borough's cost of inspecting the cabs and maintaining the taxi stand, so that the fee increase is payment for a privilege and not a right.

Mr. Lester, serving as acting mayor while Mayor Male was in Washington, also read a telegram sending greetings to Charles LaTourette, long-time Princeton resident and former publisher of the Packet, on his 84th birthday. The telegram was signed by Mr. Lester and Township Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman.

The hearing on an alleged violation of the alcoholic beverage control regulations, which originally prompted the special session of Borough Council, was postponed because the University students involved were on vacation. It has been rescheduled for 7:30 p.m. on Monday.

"WHY I PLAN TO VOTE"

Three Articles Planned. For the first time since it inaugurated its "Why I Plan to Vote" series eight years ago, TOWN TOPICS is presenting these informative, controversial articles before a primary election. Subject matter for the next three weeks will be the upcoming contest for the U. S. Senate between the incumbent, Republican Clifford P. Case, and his opponent, Robert Morris.

The first of the series appears this week on page 18. Writing on behalf of Senator Case is a Princetonian who spent 14 years in Washington—four of them coinciding with Senator Case's first years on the floor of the Senate. Former Senator H. Alexander Smith, long-time Princetonian now actively engaged in furthering Senator Case's campaign for re-election, is the author of the first pro-Case article.

Another resident of the community well-qualified to speak on national and international affairs has prvided TOWN TOPICS with the first statement urging the selection of Mr. Morris as GOP choice at the April 19 primary. He is Robert L. Clifford, formerly associated with the U. S. Department of State and now a consultant on international investment.

Meantime, the Republican Clubs of Princeton have announced that both candidates will make campaign appearances here during the next ten days (details, page 4.) If a large and enlightened primary vote was the outcome, both sides would be content.

BUILDINGS APPROVED

For "Our Lady of Priacetoa." The Township Zoning Board on Monday night approved—subject to certain conditions—the plans of the Marianite Sisters to build a new structure adjoining their present buildings at "Our Lady of Princeton" on The Great Road.

These "conditions" are nothing new. They are actually integral parts of the plan that was submitted to the Board on Monday —Continued on Page 4

Roses and Rhubarb

WHY WEEKEND SPECIALS?—

More and more people are taking advantage of our dollar weekend flower specials. In fact, Fridays and Saturdays are taking on the aspects of a country fair around our shop. Many people seem apprehensive on their first visit for a special, wondering, I suppose, if there is a "gimmick", or wondering whether flowers for one dollar can be any good. So they look and they buy—and they return to become good customers.

Specials come about mainly because some poor grower has a stroke of misfortune. This week, for instance, we have ten roses for $1. One of our rose growers is in the unhappy position of having his Easter crop arrive three weeks early. Since there are no government subsidies on overproduction in horticulture and flowers cannot be canned or frozen, he is an unhappy man indeed. Anyone who can promise to move a volume of his roses if the price is right, can strike up quite a bargain with this fellow.

Other specials this week are two dozen daffodils for $1, eight gladioli for $1 and a bunch of Pompons for $1. Each special has an interesting story behind it. We guarantee satisfaction or your money cheerfully refunded. If you phone, we will be glad to reserve your specials.

New items for us this week are lush African violets, all of them named varieties, for $1.50. Our classic alnbaster fruits in pastel shades, are new and exciting. The gourmet section is expanding; we have petit fours, those tiny cakes by Hills of Westchester, also pastel party mints and trays and hampers of home-made Cape Cod jams and jellies for Easter giving.

Why not take advantage of the nice spring weather and drop in to get acquainted?

night; in granting its approval, the Board merely emphesized that these aspects of the plan had to be met.

The main building is to be used primarily for people who live on the premises and by others only on special occasions during the year (graduation of noviatiates, and so on); occupancy must not exceed 85 persons over a five-year period; there will be a sewage treatment plant, not a septic system; surface drainage and water from the plant will drain away from populated areas; the highest point of the new structure will be only as high as the present buildings.

Residents of Heather Lane appeared before the Board to ask about the drainage provisions made by Thomas Moran, architect of the new buildings. Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus Longstreth, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Russinoff and John Davies expressed concern about the drainage of surface water and sewage and the methods proposed to care for this problem.

Herbert Kendall, also of Heather Lane, pointed out that the convent is in a residential zone and asked how the Board could control the future of the 45-acre plot so that it would not eventually become institutional, by slow degrees of growth.

Leonard Johnson, chairman of the Board, told Mr. Kendall that a Zoning Board could only pass on the plans immediately before it and that the future could not be guaranteed.

"Our Lady of Princeton" 's new structure will adjoin the present building, which is the old Dignan manor house. There will be a 400-seat Chapel, resident quarters for 36 professed Sisters and 10 senior Sisters, administrative office and suites for the Provincial Superior and her counsellors, a large community room, recreation room, music rooms and central dining room.

The convent trains young novitiates who eventuelly become teachers or nurses, and provides living quarters for elderly persons.

CASE, MORRIS TO SPEAK

GOP Caodidates for Senate, Senator Clifford P. Case and Robert Morris, both seeking nomination as the Republican candidate in this fall's U.S. Senatorial election, will speak separately in Princeton.

Mr. Morris will appear here this Sunday and Senator Case will speak the following Sunday, April 10. Both meetings will be held at 8 p.m. at the Princeton Inn and are open to the public. The primary election will be April 19.

The visits of the candidates are being sponsored by the combined Republican Clubs of Princeton in Princetonians were understandably wary about the weather these days, after the snowballing they had unexpectedly taken just about the time signs of spring were expected to arrive. But the Man said cautiously that there isn't eny need for real concern.

April will have its traditional showers—in fact, a few might crop up as soon as Saturday. But temperatures well above average are also in store for the next few days, at least. Every little bit above normal will help ease memories of March.

SHAW AT THE PLAYMILL

"Pygmalion" Produced. It takes some daring to mount a production of Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion" before an audience which has vivid memories of Rex Harrison, Leslie Howard and Wendy Hiller. But Shaw's play, as opposed to the versions of it produced by Gabriel Pascal and Moss Hart, hasn't been acted for some time and this is probably the reason that Community Players decided to produce it.

As things turn out on Alexander Street, it was a pretty good decision. The play has the stiff joints always associated with amateur theatricals, but by and large it is limber and full of life.

Peggy Allison as Liza is responsible for most of the verve. She is a thorough and absolute professional in the role of the flower girl. Her street-urchin lines flow with the inflection and speed of natural speech; her transitional scene in which she enunciates with careful distinction the idioms of Covent Garden ("them as done her in, would have done her in for a hat pin, let alone a hat") is the comic highlight of the evening and her final transformation into a "lady" is believable and natural.

Gray Sidwell is effective as Higgins, but he falls into the common error of playing the professor as a boor instead of as a highly eccentric English gentleman. For example, on opening night, Miss Allison received a bouquet of flowers after the final curtain. They were not "presented" to her as they usually are to actresses, but tossed at her, with comic petulance, by Mr. Sidwell, still in the character of Higgins. This is a minor carp, however; actually, Mr. Sidwell matches Miss Allison in the professionalism of his acting.

Supporting Cast Dilligent. Other members of the cast work diligently and catch all their cues and keep things going, but without the professional touch. Lorin Zissman in particular is a disappointing Doolittle and John Stiles leaves only a cipher as Colonel Pickering.

We are not in a position to pass on the accuracy of cockney accents and British accents which are, perforce, assumed except for Mr. Sidwell's, but they sound fine, especially Miss Allison's and Al Goodman's (he's a "bystander").

As a production, "Pygmalion" shows the effects of care and thoughtful rehearsal. The music and lighting cues follow smoothly and apparently without a hitch.

The device of dividing the stage into two scenes, side by side, is to be commended. Mrs. Jenny's two sets, depicting Higgins' study and his mother's drawing room, are appropriately decorated and small enough to provide a definite focus for the action. Her Covent Garden opener has been designed with imagination and lighted most effectively with a pattern of sharp lights and deep shadows.

Robert Wren has done a good job of directing: his actors project Shaw's lines with force and humor and they know these lines and their cues well enough not to slip.

"Pygmalion" will be given at the Alexander Street Playmill nightly through Saturday at 8:30.

DESTINE DISAPPOINTS

McCarter Program Monotonous. Still another program of ethnic dance was brought last Saturday to McCarter Theatre.

Jean Leon Destine from Haiti and his company, obviously from New York, whirled and shuffled through dance after dance, each with a different name, each with exactly the same step and movement. Costumes varied somewhat in color, not at all in design.

Destine has made a name for himself as "Haiti's Ambassador of the Arts," having brought to the U.S.A. in recent years a program of dances inspired by the amazing folklore of his native country. The original inspiration was not evident Saturday night nor was this performance true theatrical dance.

The dancers had no communication among themselves, thus lacking dramatic force even in those numbers supposed to represent voodoo ceremonies. They played entirely to the audience as entertainers asking for a hand, rather then as performers creating a story or a mood.

There was a large audience which appeared to enjoy itself. The drummers were fine and the night club atmosphere was dominant throughout. Unfortunately, no refreshments were served.

SOPHOCLES COMING

In New Production. A new translation of Sophocles' tragedy, "Oedipus Rex," will be given in McCarter on Friday and Saturday, April 8 and 9, under the direction of its translator, Dr. C.A. Trypanis, of Oxford University.

THEY STAR IN "OEDIPUS:" Karl Light and Pat Sturhahn, well-known in Princeton for their performances in many theatrical productions, will assume the roles of Oedipus the King and Jocasta in the new production of Sophocles' drama to be given April 8 and 9 in McCarter Theater.

News Of The Theatres

This is the first time the new translation has been presented in this country.

The production will employ ancient Greek conventions adapted to the demands of the modern stage, with an integrated acting chorus chosen from members of the University Choir and directed by Mrs. Samuel Keen. There will be special music and choreography.

Sets depicting the royal palace of Thebes will be on four levels. Typical Greek dress of the fifth century B.C. has been designed by Mrs. Elizabeth Barrie of Princeton and the making of 25 different costumes has been under her direction.

HERE COMES THE FLUTE

Children's Play to be Given. "The Magic Flute," an original story about a young boy who runs away from home in pursuit of happiness, will be given this Saturday at 10:30 and 2 p.m. in Murray Theatre on the University campus.

The fairy tale desribes the youth's adventures with a wicked old witch, two mischievous leprechauns and a beautiful forest nymph, to say nothing of his eventual discovery of the Magic Flute itself. Mrs. Constance Loux wrote the story. Tickets are on sale at the University Store, and will be at the theatre on Saturday.

The flute player will be Miss Carol Widman, 16-year-old member of the Princeton High Scool band. Miss Widman is also a member of the school's Symphonette Band and the summer Community Band.

HER FLUTE IS MAGIC: Carol Widman, flautist in the Princeton High School band, will play behind the scenes in the forthcoming children's play, "The Magic Flute."

"CLERAMBARD" TO BE HERE

Farce in McCarter. The French farce, "Clerambard," which ran off-Broadway in 1957, will be given on Saturday, April 23, at 8:30 in McCarter Theatre. Tickets will go on sale at the University Store on April 4.

Billed as a "free-swinging comedy," the play pokes fun at religion, morels, sex, sentimentalism and itself. The author, Marcel Ayme, takes aim at almost everything which is sacred to middle-class society, including people who poke fun at middle-class society.

KUPFERMAN TO DESIGN

For Ballet Society. Jacques Kupferman, well-known here as an artist, will design the sets for "Coppelia" and "La Boite a Joujoux", the two ballets that will be presented May 12 and 13 by the Princeton Ballet Society.

Mr. Kupferman has just returned from six months in Scandinavia and Israel and the paintings he did on this trip were exhibited this month at The Little Gallery. He designed the sets for the Princeton Community Players' production of "Under Milkwood" and for the Ballet Society's production of "Graduation Ball" and "Hansel and Gretel."

Marilyn Scassera, associate of the fashion designer, Tina Leser, will work with Mr. Kupferman and with Audree Estey as costume designers for the 150 dancers who will take part in the two ballets.

BRISTOL WILL SING

In "Pinafore." Lee Bristol, known to Princeton audiences for his performances in "The Gondoliers" and "Iolanthe," will portray Sir Joseph Porter in the Savoyards' spring production of "H.M.S. Pinafore," the Gilbert and Sullivan favorite. Performances will be given in McCarter Theater April 29 and 30 and the weekend of May 7. Munroe Wade and Mel Olson will direct.

Other members of the cast include Sheldon Simon as Ralph Rackstraw, Frank Felleman as Dick Deadeye, Warren Dodson as Captain Corcoran, Marian White as Buttercup, Reba Gilman as Josephine and Donna Randall as Hebe. Miss Gilman, Mr. Felleman and Mr. Simon were in last year's production of "Iolanthe" and Mr. Simon also appeared in the Savoyards' "Gondoliers."

BELL NAMED PRODUCER

For University Players. Dale Bell, this year's president of the Theatre Intime, has been appointed producer for the University Players for the 1960 summer season. Serving as director of two of this season's plays will be David Sawyer, produced for the Players in 1958 and 1959 and a co-producer of the current off-Broadway presentation of Samuel

SPRING IN YOUR WALK

Flats on Up. No matter what color spring will be for you this year, Hulit's will match it. The shoe store on Nassau Street has wholesale lots of classic white suede pumps which can be dyed any color you like, from crocus purple to daffodil yellow.

The idea of dyeing suede shoes is not new, but the successful accomplishment of the idea is new indeed. These pumps are so easy to care for that they can be wiped smooth with a damp cloth if you water-spot them and brushed up just as a pair of black suede can be. Toes are pointed, heels are high or even higher; take your choice.

For a little ole every day shoe, Hulit's has a bone "tweed" pump which turns out to be linen. The weave is nubby and striped and the subtle coloring of bone, tan and natural is effective. There's a bone bow, shoestring size, at the instep. Heel is medium.

"Bone Baghdad" is a wedge shoe with open toe and sling heel, made of a gold-flowered tapestry except for the bone-colored bands across the toe. Town and Country's contribution to the season is a plain pump with a diagonally pleated vamp. Comes in a quartet of colors which Town and Country, with immense daring, calls "The Four Seasons". There's navy (spring); red (summer, we presume); cognac (autumn, probably) and black for winter.

A Hulit favorite this spring is Town and Country's Deer-foot, a deerskin sport shoe in a modified loafer style with a fringed tab at the instep. The color is a warm taffy-honey and the lining is bright red. ($9.95).

A companion shoe comes in black, "Wild Honey" or "Butternut" and with a pear-shaped flat heel and a moccasin toe. The leather is firmer and finer than the deerskin, but not quite so pliable. ($11.95).

You can walk for miles in a leather pump with stacked one-inch heel and squared-off toe. The tan kid has a "plug" of suede set into the vamp for texture contrast.

Travellers will buy the soft folding slipper in clear plastic case. Well, the front of the case is clear plastic: the rest of it hides your shoe behind opacity. Anyhow, the slipper is made by Gustave of the Virgin Islands in black, red, bone, silver or gold. Some colors have a mildly corrugated sole. The slippers are hand made and slick as a glove. For $3.95.

What's for Dinner? A skirt's for dinner, kiddies: a full, gathered romantic dinner skirt made one-of-a-kind for customers of Les Girls on Chambers Street.

These floor-length (or ankle-length) skirts are cotton prints, $25 each. At the moment, you'll find one that's white with little blue roses on it, another one that's batik in black and russet and a third that's kitchen chintzy, with life-size bunches of asparagus, a mousse, a lobster red from the pot, bean bags and three-inch letters providing captions for all these succulents. You'll look like a cook-book, but think of the conversation. You can order a skirt made of anything you like.

Toni Owen's answer to summer is a collection of olive and cream stripes reproduced, on the slant, in a softly pleated skirt and a sleeveless overblouse with shoestring straps and back buttons. A trapeze beach top, gathered at the neck, hangs just long enough for modesty when you're wearing a bathing suit underneath. It's solid olive.

For $35, you can get a four-piece Glen plaid denim outfit which is crease-resistant and just dying to go in your suitcase. There's an overblouse with back

Les Souliers—Whoops!

Things used to come from France. Then, about the time people stopped saying "au revoir" and began saying "arivederci," everything started to come from Italy—shoes, shirts, silks, you know.

Now France is getting to be fashionable again and wait'll you see the shoes Hulit's has to prove it. These are flats, "fabrique en France exclusivement pour Sandler's." They are made of the softest kid, treated to look sort of silvery and they are held to your foot by an elasticized rim, as though they were slippers. The toe is as sharp as a concierge's ear, and the low vamp is marked by a flat little bow which goes across the inner instep rather like a strap.

And the colors! Glacier, parme, bleu, noir, crepuscule, vert pesche and paille. If you can't match your spring costume from that list, you'll have to repeat French next year, that's all.

News Of The Theatres

Spewack's "Under the Sycamore Tree."

Mr. Sawyer was director last Summer of the University Players' production of Beckett's "Waiting for Godot," first play in the group's 31-year history to be held over for an extended run. Mr. Bell and Mr. Sawyer together arranged for the appearance in Princeton last Fall of John Gielgud in his "Ages of Man," for the University Players.

An advisory board for the University Players is currently in the process of formation. The board will be made up of persons who subscribe to the policy of the organization and are interested in its continuance. General purpose of the advisory board will be to maintain continuity, since the production staff changes every year or two.

The policy of the Players is to offer more substantial theatrical fare than that usually found in summer stock. Last year's repertoire, for example, included plays by Synge, Molnar, Beckett, Shaw, Chekov, Ionesco and Shakespeare.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Porgy and Bess (March 31-April 6) is a huge, ear-splitting, Technicolor version of the Gershwin opera; Samuel Goldwyn's production is so overblown and stagey that neither Gershwin's music (which is shouted at top volume from all sides of the theatre) nor a superior cast, including Sidney Poitier, Dorothy Dandridge, Sammy Davis Jr., Pearl Bailey and Diahann Carroll, are shown to very good advantage. Otto Preminger directed with a heavy hand.

It has not been ten years since the introduction of the widescreen and stereophonic sound processes, yet enough time has passed so that neither can attract many people on the basis of novelty alone. Hollywood is filming an ever-growing percentage of its films with these processes. In view of all this, it is shocking to consider how few of the best recent films have been dressed up in this manner.

We are not suggesting, of course, that "Porgy and Bess" is an unsatisfactory movie because it was made in Technicolor, widescreen and stereophonic sound. Nonetheless, it is symptomatic of the fact that putting these spectecular processes in the hands of many film makers is tantamount to ordering them to think big and forget taste. "Porgy and Bess" is a great story and a fine opera; its intrinsic merit prevents it from being a bad film. It could, however, have been a great film and it is a shame the opportunity has been missed. The musical numbers (i.e., 95 per cent of the soundtrack) are dubbed for most of the principals.

THE GARDEN

Singers of Paris (March 30

CATFISH ROW: Dorothy Dandridge and Sidney Poitier take the title roles in "Porgy and Bess," at the Playhouse through Wednesday.

—April 2). The advance publicity for this French (with English titles) mystery promised it would be "cruel, sexy, brutal" and would include "Parish thugs and their French Molls, undraped chorines in PARIS BISTROS, the Gendarme dragnet and Paris SEX in the RAW!"—so naturally we were anxious to see it. It is, we found, no more than another French mystery, and the "DESPERATE MEN and FRIGHTENED WOMEN" so tantalizingly promised are neither more nor less desperate and frightened than those in last week's French mystery. It is true, however, that none of the chorines wear drapes.

Charles Vanel and Bela Darvi are the stars, and Pierre Chenal directed. The story hinges around the release from prison of Le Fondu, a notorious killer. Le Fondu has sworn vengeance on the police officer who sent him away. The police officer's friends are worried. The police officer says he is not worried. Le Fondu kills the police officer. Le Nicois, a procurer nephew of Le Fondu, agrees to spy on his uncle for the police. Le Fondu kills Le Nicois. Despondent police officers begin having affairs with each other's wives. People dance in PARIS BISTROS. After a while, the police kill Le Fondu.

Tobacco Road (April 4) is a competent adaptation of Erskine Caldwell's nasty little tale of twisted relationships in the deep and impecunious South. The film, released in 1941, is sordid and depraved enough, but in this day of Tennessee Williams and "The Most Wonderful Moment" (see below) it doesn't seem as shocking as it once did.

The stars are Gene Tierney, Charley Grapewin, Marjorie Rambeau and Dana Adrews. It was adpated by Nunnally Johnson, directed by John Ford and produced by Darryl Zanuck.

The Most Wonderful Moment (April 5-9) is a clinically explicit treatment of childbirth which is handled in such good taste that it is acutally boring. Italian-made, but with a dubbed English soundtrack, the film stars Marcello Mastroianni, Giovanna Ralli and Marisa Merlini.

It concerns a young doctor (Mastroianni) who is a firm advocate of "painless childbirth" and whose personal problems center around the pregnancy of his girl friend (Miss Ralli), an assistant in the obstetrical department. The mixture of education and soap opera is not propitious. Luciano Emmer directed.

WORKMAN INJURED

In Rocky Hill Explosion. Eugene J. Gula, 36, of Highland Park, suffered a compound fracture of the left leg and received extensive puncture wounds last Friday, when a steel autoclave gave way under pressure at the Young Development Division of Hercules Powder Company in Rocky Hill.

The temporary wooden building, which housed the autoclave, was demolished. Mr. Gula was the sole occupant at the time of the explosion. He was taken to Princeton Hospital by the Rocky Hill Rescue Squad. His condition is listed as satisfactory. The cause of the explosion has not yet been determined.

The company employs 200 men, and manufactures lightweight glass reinforced plastic material, used for rocket cases. It does not produce or handle explosives.

JUST ONE OF THOSE DAYS

Woman Knocked Out By Post. Mrs. George Lewis, 49, of 41 Fisher Avenue was taken to Princeton Hospital Tuesday afternoon after she knocked herself out against a metal post in the Princeton Shopping Center.

According to Township police, Mrs. Lewis had turned her head to call over her shoulder to a child. She kept moving while her head was turned, and walked into the post. Mrs. Lewis was taken to Princeton Hospital by the First Aid Unit. She had regained consciousness by the time the ambulance arrived at the Hospital and she was treated and released.

Con Collections Weekly

A change in schedule for the collection of tin cans and bottles in Princeton Borough will become effective on Monday:

Tin cans and bottles will be collected once every week as follows: west of Witherspoon Street — Thursdays; East of Witherspoon Street — Wednesdays.

The cans and bottles should be placed at the street curb preferably during the preceding evening, since collections will be made early in the morning. Empty containers should be removed from the curb as soon as possible after collection.

Those having questions about this change in schedule or about the regulations concerning the collection of tin cans, bottles and garbage should call the Borough Engineering Department Office.

VOLUNTEERS "TRAIN"

Women Attend Sessions. Approximately 170 women from 30 organizations attended the first "Training Day" for volunteers held on Monday at the YWCA under the joint sponsorship of the YWCA, the League of Women Voters and the American Association of University Women.

An evaluation meeting will be held on Monday, April 11, at 9:30 a.m. at the YWCA and the results of the Training Day will be discussed at that time. This session will be open to the public.

Representatives came to the Training Day workshops from the Red Cross, Hadassah, B'nai B'rith, the Council of Community Services, the Visiting Nurse Association, Trinity Episcopal Church, the Unitarian Church, Second Presbyterian Church, Methodist Church, the United Church Women, Girl Scouts, Planned Parenthood, two P.T.A.s, the Junior Faculty Wives, the United Community Fund, Princeton Hospital, the Friendship Club, the Homemakers, various nursery schools, the Smith College Club and the Wellesley Club, and from the three sponsoring organizations.

Ten women registered from Summit, New Brunswick and Trenton. During the day-long "Training Day," women listened to Mrs. Robert B. Meyner, wife of the Governor, and to Mrs. Homer van Beuren Joy, president of the Barnard College Alumnae Association, and between speeches they attended any one of five roundtables. These training workshops were concerned with being an effective chairman, handling organization money, public relations and publicity, human resources and finally, the technique of leading a discussion.

Mrs. Lynn B. Mann, president of the Princeton AAUW, was chairman of the affair. A booklet detailing the accomplishments of the Training Day will be published shortly. Copies may be reserved by writing to the YWCA.

ANNIVERSARY PLANNED

Of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority. The Princeton chapter of the Zeta Phi Beta College Sorority, will celebrate its 40th anniversary Friday at 8 p.m. in the Witherspoon School on Quarry Street. The evening's festivities will include the "Blue Revue," a national project designed to raise money for the sorority's scholarship fund. The Revue will include a variety show.

Vocal and instrumental selections, interpretative and modern dances and monologues will be a part of the entertainment. Several professional entertainers will be on hand. The highlight of the evening will be the crowning of Miss Blue Revue, who in addition to her crown, will receive numerous gifts. Admission is $1.

TWO CHILDREN INJURED

In Separate Accidents. Nadine Vernon, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Vernon, 77 Clay Street, is in fair condition in Princeton Hospital following an accident in which she was struck by the side of a car Saturday morning on Birch Avenue.

Township Police said that the little girl walked or ran into the side of an automobile driven by Louis Caruso, 31, 100 Leigh Avenue. Mr. Caruso told the police that he did not know of her contact with the car until he heard a thump on the right side, away from the driver's seat. Dr. S. R. Lewis, who treated the child at the hospital said she had not been run over and police have absolved Mr. Caruso of any blame.

Edward Thompson, 14, Old Lincoln Highway, is in Princeton Hospital with multiple contusions, lacerations and a possible fracture of the left leg. He was hit by a truck Tuesday morning on County Highway 518 near Washington's Headquarters above Rocky Hill.

State Police said the boy was injured when he ran from behind a garbage truck into the path of another truck, driven by James Johnson of Pennington. A decision on charges against Mr. Johnson is pending.

Early Sunday morning, Robert T. Gatchell, 46, of 56 Harrison Street, struck a guard rail on Snowden Lane near Overbrook Drive. The station wagon he was driving and five sections of fencing were demolished. The car overturned but Mr. Gatchell was uninjured.

OPEN HOUSE PLANNED

For Practical Nursing School. A general invitation has been extended to the public by Princeton Hospital to attend an Open House for its School of Practical Nursing on April 9 and 10 from 3 to 5. Students of the school, the first of its kind in the area, will serve as hostesses.

Visitors will be able to see, in addition to classrooms and laboratory, the other floors of the four-story addition to Lambert House. The nursing staff, technicians, anesthetists, student of the various schools and women resident physicians are housed in Lambert House.

Special guests on April 10 will be Miss Hilda Torrop, executive director of the National Association for Practical Nurse Education and Service, and her staff. The Association was consulted extensively in the planning of the hospital's new school.

UNITS TO MEET

League Schedules Meetings. Foreign policy will be theme of the April unit meetings of the League of Women Voters. Miss Cary Peebles, chairman, has announced that economic cooperation with the Soviet Union, the influence of ideology on Russian policy and the general subject of co-existence will be considered at these gatherings. Unit meetings are open to the public.

They have been scheduled as follows: Tuesday, April 5, 8:15 p.m., home of Mrs. Stanley Pilshaw, 140 Longview Drive; Mrs. Robert Danielson, discussion leader; Wednesday, April 6, 10 a.m., home of Mrs. Marvin Blum—Continued on Page 12

CLASSES SCHEDULED

In Figure, Portrait Painting. A special class in figure and portrait painting will be given during the ten-week spring term at the Studio-on-the-Canal, Alexander Street. The term will begin this Saturday and run through June 18. A bulletin describing this and other courses will be sent on request.

Other courses for the term include a beginners' course in painting (day and evening sessions), ceramics (morning and evening), and sculpture (morning).

Childrens classes in painting and ceramics are scheduled for afternoons and Saturday morning. The Saturday session will include oil painting for children nine years old and up.

FOX WINS

Is "Go" Champ. Ralph H. Fox, 134 Ceder Lane, is now the "Go" champion of New Jersey. Mr. Fox defeated a New York Go player, with whom he was tied, in Saturday's final rounds of the New Jersey State Open Go Tournament. The finals were held in Fine Hall on the University campus before an audience of about 30 Go-watchers.

This is the first tournament sponsored by the New Jersey group and members of the Go Association hope that the match will be an annual affair. Go is an Oriental game popular in Japan.

It resembles chess and has attracted many adherents who enjoy the intellectual challenge it presents. Mr. Fox, a member of the mathematics department at Princeton, plans to go to New York in May to enter a tournament against players from the eastern United States.

CAKE SALE SLATED

To Benefit Easter Egg Hunt. Nassau Aerie No. 2732, Fraternal Order of Eagles, will hold a cake sale this Saturday from 9 in 1 at Borden-Castanea (Nassau Coffee Shoppe), 154 Nassau Street.

Proceeds will help finance the group's annual Easter egg hunt, which will take place Saturday, April 9, on the grounds of Princeton Country Day School. All children participating will receive a gift, and many prizes will be awarded those finding different classes of eggs.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED

By Hillcrest Association. J. Alfred Seitz, 335 Jefferson Road, was named president of the Hillcrest Civic Association at a meeting held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Volwieder, 28 Woodland Drive. Mr. Seitz succeeded Dr. William Van Riper, and is past treasurer of the association. He is on the faculty of Princeton High School.

Charles H. Plummer, 20 Woodland Drive, was named treasurer, with Mrs. Helen Brackett, 101 Red Hill Road, to serve as secretary for 1960-61. A dinner-dance is planned for June at the Princeton Inn. Mrs. Walter Weber, 501 Jefferson Road, is chairman of the committee.

TO RECEIVE CHARTER

Of South Brunswick Chamber. The newly-formed South Brunswick Junior Chamber of Commerce will become an official chapter of the Jaycee organization when it receives its charter this Thursday night at a banquet to be held at the Forsgate Country Club.

Leonard Newton of Princeton, New Jersey State Jaycee President, will be the principal speak-

Members of the committee are Mrs. Clement Baldwin, Mrs. James DiCicco, Mrs. Robert Eisenman, Mrs. Bernard Klim, Mrs Marie Durling, Mrs. J. J. Crovetto, Miss Rose Martin, Mrs. Edward McVaugh, Mrs. John Nolan, Mrs. Jack Nicolson, Mrs. James O'Malley, Mrs. John Robotti and Mrs. Samuel Schuman.

NEW JERSEY IS THEME

Of Cub Scout Meeting. New Jersey, its history and geography, was the theme of the monthly meeting of Princeton Cub Scout Pack 77 at the Valley Road School. Members of Den 4 explained the origin of New Jersey and told of some of the State's historical highlights.

Den 10 discussed the geography of the State, and examined its natural resources and agricultural products. Den 10 cubs prepared models for famous buildings in the Princeton area and told of their origin and significance.

Achievement awards were presented to 13 cubs at the meeting. They were: Samuel Wells, Kenneth Klothen, Simeon Moss, Eugene Chang, Richard Meservy, Richard Glover, Barry Henninger, Thomas Butterfoss, Bill Hartley, Ronald Kingsley, Theodore Tetzie, Ronald Scullin and Garry Borkan.

ALUMNAE WILL MEET

Wellesley Club. Miss Virginia V. Sides, assistant to the president of Wellesley College, will speak to alumnae next Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Webster.

Mrs. Donald Griffin will entertain at tea Wednesday afternoon for Miss Sides and prospective Wellesley students. At the evening meeting, Mrs. John Gulick will report on the results of the Club's Antiques Show and Sale.

COMMISSION TO REPORT

On Hopewell Industry. The new Hopewell Township Industrial Commission will hold its first public meeting Monday at 8:30 p.m. at the Municipal Building, Harts Corner.

The Commission will report on its activities to date and ask for suggestions from the public. Those interested are invited to attend.

Question of the Week

Question: Margaret Mead, famed anthropologist, has been quoted as deploring the rise in the number of marriages among college students. What is your opinion of "campus marriages?"

Where asked: Public Library.

Mrs. Wesley Konover, 13 Patton Avenue, nurse at Westminster Choir College: I don't altogether approve of them unless the couple can assume all the obligations, financial and otherwise, that go with married life. They shouldn't have to pinch pennies at the start because the mental strain is terrific in a marriage where there are no financial resources to fall back on in case of a crisis.

Paul Gertmenian, 32 Wiggins Street, Princeton Seminary graduate student, married: I think they are very good. It gives the wife an opportunity to see a little more deeply into the field her husband is entering. It offers the chance to share the experience of college life which is so vital to one's make-up.

Mrs. William B. Barnes, 221-B Marshall Street, housewife: I think it is a poor arrangement, frankly. I did it myself. It takes the main interests of the students away from the academic life. A girl has plenty of time after she is 22 to worry about marriage and children.

Maron Charydak, Princeton Junction, laboratory worker: I could see a girl getting married while still in college because an education isn't as important to her as it is to a man. A boy should finish his college education first because he's the one that has to go out in the world and struggle for a living.

Michael Boccanfuso, 62 Leigh Avenue, huckster: I think it isn't good because the responsibilities of marriage would interfere with a student's studies. Two people getting married should be older and more mature. It just isn't a good idea.

George Sickel, Alexander Road, Princeton Junction, associated with Prudential Life Insurance Co.: I definitely think the should wait until after graduation. They need time for studying. There are enough extra-curricular activities for a college student to engage in without taking on the burden of marriage. I don't feel a married student would get the full educational and social benefits a college offers.

James Henderson, Mountain Avenue, junior at Springfield College: I don't see it. I'm opposed to it because I think it takes away the idea of school, both from the curriculum and extra-curriculer aspects. School just loses its meaning. There is more to college than just getting a diploma and I feel that married students lose out on a lot. I'm basing much of this on the experience of some married students at Springfield.

Mrs. William E. Stewardson, Province Line Road, librarian at Miss Fine's School: I'm married to an undergraduate so I'm all for it. I don't think it hurts a woman to find out what her husband is going to be doing the rest of his life. We did a lot of planning before we got married and it has worked out very well. I was a college graduate and therefore equipped to work.

David Chamberlain, 224-C Halsey Street, graduate student in English and married: A young man should be very well advised before he marries as an undergraduate. He should have absolutely certain financial support, preferably of his own earning. Ordinarily, I would say it is not advisable for the undergraduate to marry. His judgements are not formed and he has seen too little of the world. This is considering the average undergraduate who has had no military service and who comes straight from high school into college.

Mrs. Peter Werenfels, Carter Road, housewife: I think during the war when there were so many veterans coming back it was desirable, but now that the age level of college students is more or less back to normal, I feel it would be better if there were fewer marriages among students. I believe happier marriages result when both partners are mature and the husband is financially independent.

James Hall, 116 Witherspoon Street, waiter at Princeton University: It is a normal feeling and desire to want to get married. When two are in love, two are going to get married whether they are in school or not.

Miss Janet Aylward, nurse at McCosh Infirmary Princeton University: I can't believe it is a terribly good idea. It's sort of a traditional role for a man to support a woman. This usually gets reversed in a campus marriage and, psychologically, this could be bad. There might be a certain amount of resentment not only on the part of the boy but, perhaps, on the part of the girl as well. She might be forced to work in some type of routine job to support her husband while he continues his studies.

Question Of The Week

Charlees W. Jefford, 227-C Marshall Street, graduate student in chemistry, married: Margaret Mead has studied the customs of primitive societies and perhaps her observations may be relevant to the mating customs of the young American college student. She may be right.

Mrs. Natalie Spencer, 57 College Road West, housewife: I'm on the fence. I think some college students are mature enough to take on the responsibilities of marriage-if it is economically possible-but there are others who need three years to gain maturity and wisdom and should not take on the burden of an early marriage.

Ira Deutsch, Princeton Junction, scientist at RCA: I think they are rather foolhardy. People at that age don't have much judgement about other people.

John Regalbuto, 407-B Devereux, Avenue, graduate student in Mechanical engineering, married: Marriage has a stabilizing effect on the student. Speaking as one, I'd say the married graduate student is forced to face the basic facts of life consequently is more apt to apply himself because he realizes that a good part of the security of his family depends on his education.

Mrs. Hubert Davies, River Road, housewife: In the main, I think they should wait until they finish their studies. It is difficult for a man to study when he has marriage on the mind. There is plenty of time for marriage. Waiting gives a man a chance to get higher grades and to do better in school.

William Camden, married student at Westminster Choir College: I feel it depends on the outlook of the individual couple and for what reasons they are getting married. If they are marrying, say, for convenience sake, it would be a bad decision. But I believe if two people are very deeply in love, they will be able to work things out regardless of what situation they may be in or where they may be located.

Mrs. Margery Benjamin, New Hope, Pa., housewife: I have nothing against it, particularly if the students are mature. Personally I'd rather see them wait until they are older before making that decision. They should have a chance to be on their own first and work for awhile before marrying.

HOW TO BE HAPPY

Is Married Life. A five-session course in Education for Marriage will be given on successive Tuesdays beginning April 19 at 8:15 p.m. by the Planned Parenthood Committee of Princeton. The course is open to all engaged or newly-married couples at $2 per person, payable at the office of the Committee, 180 Nassau Street, or on the evening of the first lecture at the YWCA, Avalon Place, where all the sessions will be held.

The sessions and their leaders: "After the Honeymoon—the Road Ahead," Dr. Helen Daniells, psychiatrist and psychoanalyst; April 26, "When Love Is Not Enough," Dr. Jessie Bernard, visiting professor of sociology at Princeton and Mrs. Hazel Foscher, marriage counsellor; May 3, "Giving Your Marriage Something to Stand On," Dr. Ernest Gordon, Dean of Princeton University Chapel; May 10, "The Anatomy of Sex," Dr. Lillian Tenney and Dr. David Rose, physicians; May 17, a summing-up session with all the above present to answer questions.

CAMPAIGN MOVES AHEAD

For Red Cross. An overall total of $25,670 has been reported so far for the annual Red Cross fund-raising campaign. The goal is $43,500, so the total so far represents 59 percent of the sum that the Red Cross is seeking, according to Jerald S. Hanks, general chairman of the campaign.

The break-down shows $12,500 for General Canvass under Mrs. Thomas Boccanfuso; $1,700 for Branches and Auxiliaries under Joseph Catelli; $8,300 Special Gifts; $3,800 for Business. Over 800 campaign workers have been seeking funds in the Princeton area.

TO SPEAK ON VOCATIONS

At St. Paul's P.T.A. Father Joseph Sheinpeck will speak on "Vocations" to members of St. Paul's P.T.A. next Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Thomas Moran, Mrs. Norbert Considine, Mrs. Edmund Megna and Mrs. Anthony Amalfitano.

WHAT ABOUT TV?

AAUW to Hear Speaker. Nathan Shoehalter of Rutgers will discuss educational television at the next meeting of the Princeton branch of the American Association of University Women.

The meeting will be held next Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Donald Thiel, Skillman.

TO DISCUSS FOLK ART

With Slides. "And Children at Reduced Prices," a talk of non-academic painters, primitives and folk artists of the early United States will be given next Monday at 8:15 p.m. in the faculty lounge of Firestone Library under the auspices of the Historical Society of Princeton and the Bryn Mawr Club.

The speakers will be Dr. Louis C. Jones, folklorist and social historian who is director of the New York State Historical Association in Cooperstown, and Agnes Halsey Jones, art historian. Their talks will be illustrated with slides from the folk art collection at Fenimore House, Cooperstown.

TO HOLD REGISTRATION

For Montgomery Kindergarten. Children who will be five years old by October 15, 1960, are eligible to enroll in the kindergarten of the Montgomery Township Elementary School, Orchard Road, Skillman.

Registration will be held at the school Monday and Tuesday between 10 and 12 noon. Parents

Fire Company Planned

With the arrival of Plainsboro's first fully-equipped fire truck, the Township has begun plans to recruit more members for the first volunteer fire company in Plainsboro history.

Plainsboro Volunteer Fire Company No. 1, Inc., now has about 40 members and the group plans to inaugurate an extensive fire safety and training program.

"The wholehearted support of the Township Government and the entire community, gives added impetus to the undertaking," Howard Grant, president of the company, said. "There is no question of the necessity for a fire company in Plainsboro, and we hope to sustain continued growth and development."

FASHION PARADE PLANNED

Sponsored By Teachers' Group. The Princeton Borough Teachers' Association, under the leadership of Mrs. Alan Richards as president, is sponsoring an Easter Parade of Fashions for the benefit of the Association's High School Scholarship fund. The show will be held on Thursday, April 7, in the Princeton High School Auditorium at 3:30 p.m. It is under the direction of Mrs. Roger McDonough and Miss Dorothy Gaskell.

Mrs. William Bux is in charge of models and will be working in conjunction with Bellows, Inc. of Princeton. Mr. and Mrs. Bellows have just returned from Europe with many of the latest fashions of the continent. Assisting Mrs. McDonough and Miss Gaskell will be: Frederick Siebelts and Samuel McDowell (decorations), Mrs. Chester Stroup (music), Mrs. William Beaney and William Bux (tickets), Philip Cobb (publicity), Richard Wood and Alfred Seitz (stage and lighting).

Many of the models will be members of the faculty of the Borough High School. The models include: Mrs. Claud Allais, Mrs. Robert Cleary, Miss Betsey Dinsmore, Miss Kathani Elo, Miss Margaret Froschauer, Miss Dorothy Gaskell, Miss Evelyn Haase, Mrs. Thomas Love, Mrs. Samuel McDowell, Miss Margaret Sands, Mrs. Harry Volwieder, Mrs. Russell Warren. Working with child models will be Miss Lynn Love and Miss Kim McDowell.

Tickets may be obtained from any Borough teacher or at Bellows, Inc., Parents who are interested in purchasing tickets may send $1 for each ticket to their child's homeroom teacher. Tickets are also available through Mrs. William Beaney, William Bux at the High School; Mrs. Esther Robert at Witherspoon School and Mrs. Harry Volwieder at Nassau Street School.

NEW OFFICE FOR C OF C

Located on Palmer Square. A new office for the Chamber of Commerce will be located at 2 Palmer Square East, President Ralph Mason announced this week. The Chamber's new home is part of the space formerly occupied by the Nassau Inn Oyster Bar for several years.

It is hoped the new office will be open for business in a short time. Miss Beatrice Miers has been named to the post of executive secretary.

The renting of office space is one of several organizational activities being carried on by the Chamber. A program committee, headed by George Adriance of the Princeton Bank and Trust Company, assisted by John C. Williams, the Chamber's executive consultant, has completed work on a brochure aimed at recruiting members. The brochure is now in the hands of the printer.

A membership committee, headed by J. P. Meyer, manager of Bamberger's Department Store, is currently being established. Mr. Meyer reports that his committee is nearly ready to begin a membership campaign in the near future.

President Mason also announced the appointment by the board of directors of Horace Boynton to the board. Mr. Boynton is head of the Process Engineering Department of Fullmer and Bowers, Princeton architectural firm. He is a chemical engineer and a graduate of Lehigh University.

Why I Plan To Vote for MORRIS | for CASE

for MORRIS

By Robert L. Clifford

I am for Robert Morris for Senator because I believe that the urgency of strengthening America's deteriorating position in world affairs requires in Washington courageous men with new ideas and new vigor.

Like most everyone else in our comfortable university suburban community, I have found it all too easy to be complacent about such faraway events as rapidly-growing Soviet military and economic power, communism's increasingly successful neturalization and penetration of the newly-developing countries of Asia and Africa, and the Soviet bloc's arrogant refusal to reach accords with the West.

As a former Foreign Service Officer, I wonder how our government could permit itself to drift into its present position of being on the "outside" as far as traditionally friendly Cuba is concerned? And why have we stood by ineffectively while smoothly-executed Soviet bloc inroads into Guinea have made that former French colony a springboard for possible communist takeover of West Africa as well as a potential military base on the Atlantic?

Robert Morris compares these current Soviet moves with similar earlier communist moves into Eastern Europe, China, Indochina and elsewhere. As a result of his exhaustive studies of communist strategy, Mr. Morris is regarded today in Washington as an expert on these vital matters.

New Jersey's present Senators have been indecisive and ineffective in the face of our growing national peril. Must we individual voters organize a "pressure group" to call our Senators' attention to this peril before they will notice it?

Fortunately in the Primary Election we have a candidate in Robert Morris whose past 21 years as a lawyer have trained and qualified him to understand the problems which today threaten our national security.

First as a World War II naval intelligence officer and later as a Senate Judiciary Committee counsel, Robert Morris has been vigorously engaged in digging into and analyzing international and national problems. During his years in Washington (1950-58), Mr. Morris had on unrivalled opportunity to observe the organizational shortcomings of our government. As a result he has formed constructive ideas on how to make our government operate more effectively.

Robert Morris takes the firm stand that our nation must have a defense establishment equally capable of fighting an atomic or a "brush" war. Our federal budget will be illustrated with slides from the folk art collection of Fenidence of inoculation against diphtheria, smallpox and polio.

vy's ships. Our strategic forces must be provided with a more sizeable airlift than that which was so pitifully inadequate at the time of the Lebanon crisis in 1958.

While believing in the principle of foreign aid, Robert Morris considers it essential that aid programs be conducted in a manner

for CASE

By H. Alexander Smith

I appreciate your invitation to send to Town Topics a brief statement giving my reasons for supporting Senator Clifford Case in the Primary election of April 19. After 14 years of absence, due to my service in the Senate of the United States and an additional year in the State Department, it is a real pleasure for Mrs. Smith and me to be back again in our home in Princeton with so many of our friends of past years.

But I have come back at this time for a special reason, which is to assist my very able political contemporary, and present Senior Senator, Cliff Case. It has been very disturbing to learn that the current Primary campaign in some areas is being waged among Republicans on the underlying negative premise of "Beat Cliff Case". Some aspects of the negative kind of campaign remind me of what I consider one of the saddest chapters in the history of the Democratic Party.

That chapter was the Michaelson — Raskob smearing campaign against our beloved former President, Herbert Hoover, back in 1932, when the New Deal was ushered in using these techniques. I feel sure that all fair-minded citizens are agreed that this was a real black mark against the Democratic Party. These circumstances left with me a strong urge to try and keep our Republican Party out of that particular kind of campaigning.

I have always maintained that the positive approach was the one my constituents were entitled to; that I should endeavor to present my case and the reasons supporting it, rather than to attack and endeavor to destroy my opponent personally. My judgment is that one should work for something rather than against something, unless there is corruption or something of that nature involved.

I realize that these statements have nothing to do with Senator Case's voting record. While it is true that he and I, in instances, voted differently, these were the areas, generally controversial, where we find other Republicans differing from what might be called the predominant Republican vote. Democracy of our viewpoints, and the ultimate consolidation of our views in the legislation as finally passed is the great strength of our Party and our whole system of open debate, discussion of proposed amendments, pro and con, and final agreement.

One of the finest recollections I have of my 14 years in the Senate was that I could serve in our Republican Party with enthusiasm with such outstanding individuals, as Barry Goldwater of Arizona, Everett Dirksen of Illinois, Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts and Cliff Case of New Jersey, to name only a few. These men, including myself, rarely voted identically on any legislation that was offered.

My criticism of the analysis of Case's voting record by the anti-Case group is that while that group must admit that after nearly 20 years of public service, Case certainly did some creditable things, they gave him no credit whatsoever for anything.

They make no attempt to explain the circumstances surrounding the votes they are so critical of, and they leave out entirely his strong and consistent support of the foreign policy of

If You are

. . . using OILHEAT right now
. . . converting your present heating system
. . . buying or building a home

MOVE UP TO 1960's OILHEAT

The 1950's was the decade of research in the oil industry.

Tremendous strides were made. Fuel quality was vastly improved. New oilheating equipment was developed and existing equipment improved. As the decade ended less fuel was needed to heat the average home than was required at the start of the 1950's.

The result of this extensive research is 1960's OILHEAT . . . a modern combination of fuel and equipment custom-tailored to the needs of today's family.

OILHEAT USERS AND 1960's OILHEAT

Those who have used OILHEAT know its superiority.

However, even for them 1960's OILHEAT has more to offer.

You may find, for example, that modernization of your present equipment coupled with 1960's heating oil will give you even more economical heat.

Or, if your burner is 1940 vintage, you may discover that replacing it with 1960's equipment will give you far more satisfaction . . . and save you as high as 25% on your fuel bills.

Whatever your situation — if you use OILHEAT — you can look forward to greater economy . . . greater comfort . . . greater satisfaction from 1960's OILHEAT — truly THE home heating fuel of the Sixties!

WHAT TO CONSIDER WHEN YOU CONVERT

Right now, thousands of thoughtful men and women are thinking about converting their present heating system to one that will give them more for their money and add dollar value to their home. The decision they make will be important to them for many years to come.

It will be important to the comfort and safety of their families.

It will be important to the well being of the lady of the house.

It will be important to the pocketbook of the person who pays the monthly fuel bills . . . now and in the years ahead.

It will pay you to study and consider these factors carefully before you decide.

YOUR DECISION AND 1960's OILHEAT

1960's OILHEAT and your pocketbook. OILHEAT has always been the most economical fully automatic fuel available for home heating. This is especially true in states like New Jersey where heating needs are concentrated over a period of months and temperatures vary widely.

1960's OILHEAT and your family. OILHEAT gives you the comfort and safety that are so important to the health and well being of your family. OILHEAT warms the entire house . . . evenly and dependably the entire day and night. No matter how freezing it is outside, you can leave for work confident that your family will stay snug and warm all day.

1960's OILHEAT and the lady of the house. OILHEAT is fully automatic and that means the lady of the house doesn't have to tend the furnace. What's more, 1960's OILHEAT is spotlessly clean so she doesn't have the chore of extra cleaning. She's truly enjoylng the benfits of a modern fuel designed for modern living.

1960's OILHEAT AND NEW HOMES

If you are considering buying or building a home, remember that "quality starts with your heating unit!" 1960's OILHEAT in your new home will mean years of savings and satisfaction and added dollar value. And you can be confident that your new home is truly a "1960 HOME."

YOUR FUEL DEALER AND 1960's OILHEAT

Let your New Jersey fuel dealer give you all the facts about home heating. He will tell you what, in his professional judgment, is best for your home. He appreciates your business and knows that he will continue to earn your confidence by giving you his best advice and personal service.

Ask him about 1960's OILHEAT.

Report from THE MAYOR

Washington Road Studied. The Mayor, Chief of Police and the Borough Engineer met last Wednesday with Mercer County officials, including top engineering and planning staff, to review a number of suggestions for improving safety on Washington Road. Also on hand were representatives of Princeton University because of their direct interest in the thousands of pedestrian crossings there each day.

Initial reaction of the engineers, though further study will be made on the question, seemed to be that the suggestion of cutting down the roadway hoping for a near-level pedestrian or bicycle overpass was not feasible from either the economic or engineering standpoints.

Positive Steps Planned. There was, however, substantial agreement that some positive steps could be taken to reduce the present hazards. These may involve lighting, fencing, improvement in visibility at two or three near-blind intersections, and other physical changes in the heavily-traveled area.

County planners and engineers will continue their close cooperation with Princeton Borough, Township and the University in seeking diversionary routes to reduce the volume of traffic at this spot. These, however, will involve substantial Federal, state, county, municipal and private investment.

The future of the entire community is closely bound up in the decisions that must be made on this and there must be a sense of urgency about it. Our borough planning consultant is also working on this. At the same time, the borough safety committee will work out a specific list of recommendations for action by Borough Council.

Cash On The Barrel. Princeton has long been proud of its record with respect to collection of its tax levies. Municipalities recognize this as one of the barometers of the economic health of their community. Borough Clerk Bob Mooney left a short but significant note on the Mayor's desk last week.

The entire report: "We had the best tax collection record in Mercer County for 1959 with a tigure of 96.65 percent." The Collector's report should show that this percentage has now reached very close to the 100 percent mark.

Clean-up Week Set. Perhaps a reaction to the record cold of March, there seems to have been considerable citizen interest in the prospect of a special community-wide clean-up, paint-up and fix-up week this spring.

The engineering department has announced that it will be ready to cooperate in removing unwanted "debris" by special collection efforts throughout the week of May 2. Now is the time to begin sorting out the accumulated "junk" in attics, garages, cellars, closets and other hiding places indoors so that attention can be turned to the outdoor efforts when the long-awaited springtime in Princeton arrives.

Friday Open House. The regular weekly "Tell it to the Mayor!" sessions will be held on Friday, April 1, and Friday, April 8, from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. No appointment is ever necessary for these informal meetings.

Last week's visitors included some persuasive salesmen for a worthwhile cause: the scholarship fund of the borough teachers' association. The event: a fashion show at Princeton High School on Thursday, April 7.

which will stimulate recipient nations to make an all-out effort to build internal military and economic strength and to develop societies in which increasing numbers of citizens can participate in a fuller life.

Robert Morris strongly believes that our government's non-defense expenditures can be sharply reduced. Does our nation need a federal payroll of $1,000,000,000 per month? He believes, as do I, that our government could acquire much-needed organizational flexibility by "shrinking" many government activities down to manageable proportions and by returning other activities to state and local governments.

Next week, our neighbor, Dilman Smith, will avail himself of the privilege of using TOWN TOPICS' columns to go more fully into Robert Morris' position on domestic affairs.

As reported elsewhere in this issue, Robert Morris will speak Sunday evening, April 3, at the Princeton Inn at 8 o'clock. Here is our community's opportunity to ascertain Mr. Morris' views first hand. Everyone is invited.

For Case

President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles and which has been particulary appreciated by the President. They limit themselves to domestic issues exclusively in their criticism.

I do not know who all the members of the committee against Case are, but some of them I know have been against Case for many years. Some members of this committee also have been very much against President Eisenhower.

I recall a letter from one member who was very critical of the President's policies. This has left me with difficulty in analyzing this committee's present attitude. On the one hand this committee (against Case) contains men critical of the President and on the other hand, those same men criticize Case primarily because he has not supported the President.

I do want to make perfectly clear that, in my judgment, anybody has the right to criticize our public men. However, if we are going to criticize to the total extent of destroying a man's career, we must be absolutely honest and scrupulously fair. Some of the actions of those engaged in the Case opposition do not measure up to this standard.

In Cliff Case, we have a man who served the State of New Jersey, first in the State Assembly. Later the people of New Jersey first in the State Assembly. Later the people of New Jersey sent him to the House of Representatives for eight years, from 1945 to 1953. He then was elected to the Senate six years ago, after a brief intervening interval in private life. Senator Case, therefore, is our Senior Senator, with a record of almost two decades of public service.

I hope and feel confident that the Republican of the Princeton area will support Cliff Case in the coming Primary and that we will all unite in the campaign this fall for Nixon for President and Case for Senator. This will give us the strongest possible ticket and assure us of this Senate seat to give the citizens of New Jersey a vigorous intelligent and conscientious Senator for the next six years.

Again I thank you for affording me the medium of your fine publication to express these personal views.

"Excavating" Is Too Slow.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I had hoped that someone else would write to you about that hole at Nassau and Vandeventer, because on the subject of Public "Service" I get practically incoherent, as you'll see. But someone has to speak out, so here it is.

Doesn't the Borough have any control over who digs a hole in a main thoroughfare, how long they leave it open, how sincere they are in their effort to close it up again? Why can't Public Service work a little overtime to close up this hazard? Why can't they work weekends? Whom are they serving anyway?

I think the name Public "Service" fools a lot of people. They are just a business, like the local liquor store or the garbage collector. They make money, relatively lots of money, and their stockholders get a nice return.

There is no reason why the public has to serve them. That seems to be what the words usually mean. When Public "Service" wants tu read your meter, they think you should arrange to be home at their convenience. But if they need to make some repairs to their equipment, it apparently can only be done during a normal work week, weather permitting.

I suggest that the Borough grant permission to dig up the main streets only if the digger agrees to work 24 hours a day until the streets get returned to the taxpayers to whom they belong.

Lions Asked to Reconsider.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The announcement of an Easter Parade on Nassau Street sponsored by the Lions Club, to put it mildly, made me feel sick. Do we need to commercialize everything?

Do adults need to strut like peacocks to show off their finery, and at the same time encourage young children to do the same? Where is our sense of values?

Because New York, Asbury Park, and such have these parades, is it necessary for Princeton to do so? I, for one feel like boycotting any store that supports this vulgar display.

The Lions Club has sponsored many worthwhile, constructive projects, such as their work for the blind. And there are many other needs in Princeton which would well serve the community.

For instance, the need of a place for teensgers to gather, to talk, and to be able to purchase a coke, ice cream or coffee without feeling unwanted, where they would not be a bother or nuisance. Or said money for prizes and effort of promotion could be expended in flowers or cheer for ill people.

Let people who want, wear their spring and Easter clothes, but let's not encourage our young to vie with each other to have a finer, fancier, or more showy outfit than someone else.

As to the idea of this parade being a friendly and neighborly affair, the originators of the idea must have forgotten the trend of keeping up with the Jones'.

Here is hoping the Lions will reconsider and that the people of Princeton will ignore this display of vulgarity.

An Adoptive Parent Writes.

To the Editor of Town Topics

After reading your Question of the Week on the "Combs case" and the answers given to it, I am more convinced than ever that this unfortunate situation has given many people a distorted picture of the role of the boarding home in adoption cases. The boarding parents (in this case, the Combs) have the care of the child until it is ready for adoption, and the relationship is and must always be considered strictly temporary.

The relative intelligence of the couple and the child is completely irrelevant. In the case of the Combs', there was no question of the agency "taking back" the child, for it had never placed the child with the Combs' in the first place, except to be boarded there. Human emotions being what they are, boarding mothers usually are older women with children of their own, who can look forward with some degree of equanimity to sending a foster child on to its permanent home.

The Combs, young and at that point childless, should in my opinion never have been given any baby as a foster child, not because their home was unsuitable, but because it was inevitable they would quickly come to love it as their own. Given this beginning and the long time in which the child was allowed to remain with them, permitting them to adopt the child was the only fair solution.

However, as a general principle this is far too haphazard a manner for adoptive parents to be chosen. The Combs' would have been ineligible right from the start as adoptive parents, simply because they are able to have their own children; if this had not been the case, they would then have had to compete with hundreds of other couples, almost all of whom can offer the same love and security, and many of whom can offer a child some very special advantages.

The prospective adoptive parents on the long waiting lists cannot get children in any other way, and have been carefully chosen as the best available to match a wide variety of children's backgrounds. Any adoption agency has a responsibility to both the children and to the couples on their waiting list to place the available children with these couples, matching as best they can their background and abilities.

No, you cannot successfully predict the IQ of a tiny baby, but adoptive parents accept this chance as does any parent. Should an adopted child prove superior in intelligence to his adoptive parents, let there be no mistake: no one could or would attempt to take the child away, any more than from natural parents. Adoption is a legal, permanent process.

As adoptive parents ourselves, my husband and I are immensely grateful to the boarding mother who cared for our daughter in the first part of her life. She sent our little girl to us a happy, relaxed baby who has continued to grow straight and strong both in body and spirit, thanks to the loving care given her in her first home.

Such a good beginning would have been impossible had she been placed in ar institution during that time. Yet I would be appalled (and so would our adoption agency) to think of our daughter's remaining with her boarding mother, who was chosen simply for her willingness to take good physical care of the baby and for her ability to create a warm, loving atmosphere (that's all a boarding mother needs, but can't we do better in choosing which of the many possible homes a baby is going to grow up in?), rather than in our home or a similar one, where we look forward to building our lives together as a family in the most creative manner which we can devise.

The role of the boarding mother calls for the giving of a great deal of one's time and affection, the rewards only happy memories and the satisfaction of a life well begun. My own hope is that the publicity given to the Combs may result in more careful selection of boarding parents whose own life is complete enough that they will not find it so difficult to see the child leave, and in more careful guidance of the boarding parents, so that they may continuously understand their proper place in the child's welfare.

Sweets Decay Teeth.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

Without taking your time in lists of names and details, may I suggest that those outstanding authorities on nutrition and medicine who are unbiased by ulterior motives, are definitely opposed to the fluoridation of water.

We all should know that the overeating of sweets and sweet drinks by children is the greatest source of tooth decay. I would suggest that if a campaign of education to point out the real source of this widespread condition were organized, it might be less expensive and less dangerous to the community than the fluoride project. There is no guarantee of the percentage of absorption of fluoride by the individual.

LUCIA HULL
12 Vandeventer Avenue.

Another Viewpoint.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

The safety of fluoridation of the water supply cannot be demonstrated. There is now sufficient evidence to justify a positive presumption of hazard, and there is enough possibility of graver future harm to warrant added caution.

The AMA (American Medical Association) report concedes the probability of harm but implies a hope that the harm will be minimal. It also postulates that the harm will be outweighed by the anticipated benefit—a dubious postulate when neither the degree of benefit nor of harm is known.

Furthermore, there is no known method which can guarantee to the individual the amount recommended by the U.S. Department of Health, namely, 0.1 per million. In this connection the following quotation is taken from "Current Status of the Fluoridation Discussion" a report based on the proceeding of the Third Medical-Dental Conference on Evaluation of fluoridation, held on March 7, 1959, in New York City.

"This Committee is in possession of information which indicates that as far as maintaining control of fluoridation according to the specified requirements is concerned, the practice in many communities is a failure. The full extent of deficiency in control and operation is not known.

"We find it difficult to accept in view of the various reports and our own findings, that control as specified by the World Health Organization committee is, or can be exercised. It is clear of course that even if it were possible to control the fluoride concentration at every faucet in the water system, there would be no pretense of assurance of a controlled ingestion of fluroide by individual.

"Newman (1957) who studied variations in individual water consumption among children, found an extremely wide variation of daily intake, some children drinking more then 20 times the amount of water consumed by others. The data produced by the proponents of fluoridation indicate that a deficiency of a few tenths of a part per million will result in disappointment as far as dental caries prevention is concerned (Christeberg and Lewis, ibid; Spitz et al, ibid: If this is true then large sections of the fluoridated poplations do not stand to benefit.)"

MARION LEON
(Mrs. Rene Leon)
Drakes Corner Road.

Alternative to Fluoridation.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

The following is suggested as an alternative to fluoridation:

The New Look in Medicine

My neighbour hath my dose, and
I have his,
By interchange, one with another
given.
I still have mine, and his he cannot miss,
There never was a better bargain driven:
My neighbour hath my dose, and
I have his.
And thus we demonstrate with greatest ease
The solid virtues of Togetherness.
This keeps us safe from excentricities
And pangs of therapeutic loneliness,
My neighbor hath my dose, and I have his.

buttons, a straight jacket (notice the detail on set-in sleeves), straight skirt and Bermudas.

With this you could even wear the canvas beer jacket masquerading as a shirt. Patch pockets. Black stitching. $9.95.

A tweedy black and white linen dress has a collar and a little fringed tab at the back of the neck. If you're pouring tequila on the patio, wear a Mexican skirt and top in bronze and silver, all hand painted on black. There's an Aztec calendar wheel on the circular skirt, and wide brush strokes of bronze and silver on the sleeveless black halter blouse.

Flag colors wave from a calico collection. Look at the navy blue dirndl skirt with matching slip-over sleeveless top and a jacket bound with red braid and lined with red calico. The same calico makes a smock-like shirt to wear under that sleeveless pull-over.

The navy pieces are waffle-woven cotton knit and the calico is — well, calico. For after dark, there's a reversible (red, blue) calico camisole and a navy calico dirndl with a broad red calico band that brings the skirt to the ankle. Red calico flowers sprout on the navy part.

Sew Your Own. Make me a gingham dirndl, mother: I'm just a square at heart. Sewing these days from fabrics now available at The Fabric Shop on Chambers Street, involves everything from matching Glen plaids to draping silk prints to lining up the stripes in a polished cotton.

We like the polished cotton satins with their opulent stripes in violet, turquoise and aqua or the olive-colored coin dots with ragged edges against white or the undulant watered stripes of blue and green blending in a design that looks almost like moire. You'll never guess it's cotton.

White cotton jacquard provides the background for gold, brown or blue butterflies, in a print which would enhance any school-girl's dress. The jacquard background appears in several prints, as a matter of fact: beige dots on darker beige; aqua, lime and olive flowers on white or pale yellow-gold leaves against a slightly stronger shade.

If you have a bright sense of humor, buy the natural hopsacking with pink and green flowers outlined against it. Hopsacking also comes in desert stripes of orange, green or white, or in giant plaids of black and white, the squares as big as a game of hopscotch. Denim is striped, too, in multicolor patterns combining aquas and greens or russets and orange.

Flowing bolts of silk show outlines of black roses against white, or pink carnations against white (royal blue carnations, too). For a modest silk dress, try the cloud of green and pink leaves and flowers, almost like an Impressionist painting.

Checks this spring are full of bounce. Arnel and cotton combine in black or tan houndstooth with "texture" or country gingham smooth as pims in rust, olive or wine.

White arnel and cotton sustains green outlined flowers. Some are dark green outlines, some light. The pattern appears again in two shades of pink, if you prefer. Slim brown stems point up the color in both patterns.

Board of Recreation Commissioners of Princeton Township announced this week that the two public programs in crafts and basketball will not be held during Easter weekend. The two programs will function, however, the week before the Easter holiday, on April 6 and 9.

April 9 marks the end of the basketball program, but, beginning, April 23, there will be baseball practice and instruction under Thomas Murray on Saturdays from 9:30 to 11:30 at the Valley Road School field. Township boys from midget league age through high school age are eligible.

After the vacation the crafts program, headed by Mrs. Hoisington, will resume work in clay and copper enameling. Figure work will be stressed in the ceramic classes. There are still a few openings in the Saturday morning sessions at 9 and 10:30.

PLAY DAY PLANNED

In Marquand Park. A Brownie Play Day will be held Saturday from 11 to 12:30 at Marquand Park, Mrs. W. C. Megathan Jr., chairman, has announced.

The opening and closing flag ceremony will be led by Senior Mariner Scouts Barbara Alden, Karen Iverson and Merna Honds who will also assist in conducting the games and songs. Assisting will be the following Brownie Leaders: Mrs. Edward Gorman, Mrs. William Abrams, Mrs. Frank Forman, Mrs. Catherine Holland, Mrs. R. E. Scharader, Mrs. Donald Carroll, Mrs. N. J. CHOIR BOYS WILL SING

Vienna Group to Appear. The world-famous Vienna Choir Boys will be heard in McCarter Theatre this Friday at 8:30 p.m. in a three-part program. The 22 boys, aged 8 to 14, study at the Seminary School in Vienna for two years before they are permitted to go on tour, and a teacher accompanies them on their travles.

For their Princeton performance, they will sing a group of religious songs, including several in Latin. This group will be followed by a short operetta in which the boys appear in wigs, dresses and high-heeled shoes. The concert concludes with a set of familiar Austrian and Viennese waltzes and folk songs.

SEVEN WILL PLAY

In Chamber Music Concert. Seven members of the Douglass College music faculty will appear in concert at the Unitarian Church this Sunday at 8:30 p.m. in a program of rarely heard music.

George M. Jones, clarinet, James R. Wilson, piano and A. Konrad Kvam cello, will play the Beethoven trio in F flat, Opus 11. R. C. Gerstenberger, French horn; Thomas Richner and Robert D. Lincoln, pianists; and Joseph Kovacs, violin, will also perform. They will play Hindemith's Sonata for Horn and piano and Brahms' Trio in B flat major, Opus 8, for piano, violin and cello.

Tickets for the concert, $1 each, are available at the University Store and may be purchased at the door of the church the night of the concert. The Unitarian church is located at the intersection of Cherry Hill Road and Route 206.

CHOIR TO SING ON TV

Westminster in Easter Show. The 50-voice Westminster "TV Choir," composed of students at the Choir College, will sing on the Bell Telephone Hour telecast this Friday at 8:30 p.m. over NBC-TV. They will sing a group of numbers appropriate to the Easter Season.

The Choir, under the direction of Warren Martin, musical director of the College, is one of several sponsored by the College.

In the hour-long color show, the Bell "Concert Hall" will also present the pianist, Jose Iturbi, the cellist Gregor Piatigorsky, soprano Lucine Amara, tenor Nicolai Gedda, bass Jerome Hines and the Bell Orchestra.

PFLEGER TO BE SUNG

By Methodist Choir. "The Seven Last Words," by Augustin Pfleger will be sung by the Princeton Methodist Church Choir at the 11 a.m. service this Sunday. The work has been scored for strings, organ and choir.

Soloists will be Thelma Young, soprano; Barbara Hilbish, contralto; Clarence Moore, tenor; Fadlou Shehadi, bass. LaVerne Jackson will play the organ and Thomas Hilbish will conduct.

PHS NINE EXPERIENCED

Season Opens April 19. Losing only four letterman from last year's squad which compiled a 10-6 record, best in over a decade, the Princeton High School varsity baseball team expects to do even better this season.

Coach Harry Zoll, starting his fourth year as head coach with ten returning veterans feels "it is possible these kids could go all the way this year. We have an outstanding pitching staff, capable infielders and fine outfielders —all proven ballplayers," he added.

"This is chiefly a senior ball team. Most of the players have been with me for three years. They are experienced, confident and have a lot of 'moxie.' They know they are capable of beating anybody," Zoll said, "and the one thing we must guard against is too much over-optimism."

Heading the Little Tiger's potent pitching staff is southpaw Jack Lackey, captain of this year's nine whom Zoll labels as "probably the best high school pitcher in the state." Also throwing from the port side is 6'3" John Rogerson, a junior who is slated to carry the pitching burden next year for the Blue and White.

Hawkins and Sandvick Back. Right-hand flingers include Jack Hawkins and Bruce Sandvick. Hawkins is a slugger who plays third base or shortstop when he isn't on the mound, while Sandvick also plays the vital shortstop position or outfield in his non-pitching games.

Catching this quartet will be veteran Ed King. Senior Chris Tindall and Miles Truesdale, a junior, will spell King behind the plate, giving PHS both talent and depth in pitching and catching which Zoll claims "counts for 80 percent in high school ball."

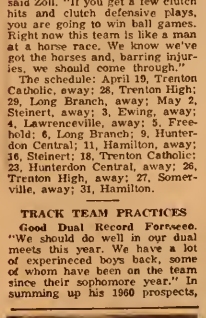
Other possible starters in the opening game against Trenton Catholic will be Archie Freeman or Dick Olsen at first; Boyd Bergen, second base; Harry Steen, Rick Hurford and Ray Cranstoun in the outfield. Cranstoun has also played short and third. Starting pitcher in the opener will be Captain Jack Lackey, winning hurler in seven of the Little Tiger's ten victories last year.

"Baseball is a game of inches" said Zoll. "If you get a few clutch hits and clutch defensive plays, you are going to win ball games. Right now this team is like a man at a horse race. We know we've got the horses and, barring injuries, we should come through."

The schedule: April 19, Trenton Catholic, away; 28, Trenton High; 29, Long Branch, away; May 2, Steinert, away; 3, Ewing, away; 4, Lawrenceville, away; 5, Freehold; 6, Long Branch; 9, Hunterdon Central; 11, Hamilton, away; 16, Steinert; 18, Trenton Catholic; 23, Hunterdon Central, away; 26, Trenton High, away; 27, Somerville, away; 31, Hamilton.

TRACK TEAM PRACTICES

Good Dual Record Foreseen. "We should do well in our dual meets this year. We have a lot of experienced boys back, some of whom have been on the team since their sophomore year." In summing up his 1960 prospects, PHS track coach Win Niles feels that his team certainly should do no worse than last year's fine 6-3 record in nine dual meets.



POINT-WINNER: Ridge Applegate, co-captain of Princeton High School track team, will add strength in the javelin and weights to the Little Tigers this spring.

Those three losses came at the hands of Highland Park, New Brunswick and Long Branch, all Group IV schools, while PHS is Group III. In the five years that Niles has been at the track coaching helm, the Little Tigers have won the New Jersey State Invitational High School title twice and placed second once.

Lost through graduation are seven lettermen, including standout performers Robert Cooper, the number one quarter-miler last year, and Wyn Jennings, a fine sprinter. But this spring, over 75 boys are vying for varsity spots, "quite a sensational thing in itself," said Niles.

Returning to the cinders will be 1960 co-captains Ridge Applegate and Lamont Fletcher. Ridge is a top performer in the weight events. He is the team's number one javelin thrower and excels in the shot put and discus as well. Fletcher is the team's outstanding hurdler.

Assisting Coach Niles are Jerry Groniger and Dick Wood. Groniger coaches the weight events, Wood, the jumping events and Niles, the track events. Each is busy getting his candidates into shape for the opening meet against New Brunswick on April 20.

In the weight events, the Blue and White should fare well with Applegate and Howard Gould one and two in the shot and discus. Ridge should also pick up points for his team in the javelin, his specialty. Other boys who should see action in weight events are John Eversen, Jack Copeland, Ben Collins and Joe Betchel.

"We have a lot of boys who haven't had a chance to show what they can do yet," Groniger said. "Dave Smith is an example.

ELNORA BREDENBURG
Champion Swimmer

Elnora Bredenburg won her first swimming award when she was two years old. Her father had just taught her to swim, and in a race across the community pool at Radburn, N. J., she came in second and won a ribbon.

A lot of water has flowed under the diving board since then. Last week, 17-year-old Elnora, a senior at Princeton High School, set two new state records in the women's 100-yard backstroke. Her qualifying time in the event—part of an AAU-sanctioned swimming meet in the "Y" pool—was 1:15.4, breaking the 1:16.2 record set two years ago.

In the finals, less than an hour later, Miss Bredenburg made it in 1:14.3, almost a full second under the record she had just set.

Elly's father, Bob Bredenburg, taught and coached his daughter out of his years of experience as a YMCA swimming coach. Her father has always been there," Miss Bredenburg says of her training, although Mrs. Cynthia Clotworthy of the YWCA staff in Princeton was responsible in a large measure for the coaching that brought the two record-breaking wins last week.

Between the time she came in second as a two-year-old—a time when "deep water" meant anything over three feet—to last week's victories, Miss Bredenburg has taken an impressive number of firsts. She holds the state championship in the junior women's 50-yard free-style with a record time of 29.3. She holds two second place spots in the state: the junior women's 200-yard breaststroke and the senior women's 50-yard freestyle.

At the age of 12, she won the Canadian National Exposition freestyle championship and two years later, she was Maryland champion in the Junior Olympics freestyle. The same year, she won the Baltimore Sun 100-yard freestyle championship.

On a list she once prepared for a reporter who wanted to know how many events she had won, she simply wrote "etc. etc. etc." after an extensive cataloguing of her victories.

Miss Bredenburg goes straight to the "Y" every afternoon after classes at Princeton High and works out from 4:45 to 6:30. When she was in training for the meet in which she broke the backstroke records, she got up every Wednesday and Friday at 5:30 and Saturdays at 7:15 to swim for a mile or so. Before the pool at Avalon was ready, she went to the Trenton "Y" twice a week for workouts.

The quiet, smiling champion enters Indiana University next fall and she's quite excited about the prospect because the school's co-ed swimmers rate third in the Big Ten. She has no particular plans for a career as swimming coach, although she will pass along some of her knowledge to Girl Scouts this summer when she takes on the job of assistant waterfront director at a Scout camp.

Before that, however, there are new records to try for: in April, Miss Bredenburg will go after the junior women's 100-yard breaststroke prize and the senior women's 100-yard back stroke.

He is very strong and should have a lot of potential."

The 1960 schedule: April 20, New Brunswick, away; 22, Lawrenceville, away; May 2, Steinert; 4, Hightstown; 11, Highland Park; 13, Hamilton; 16, Somerville; 20, Trenton High, away; June 1, Long Branch.

LACROSSE TEAM WINS

Despite Mud and Rain. A cold shower provided by the Weather Man and resultant muddy going were no hindrance to Princeton's lacrosse team as it opened its season Saturday on Goldie Field. The Philadelphia Lacrosse Club, a 9-4 victim a year ago and good enough to top the Tigers in 1957, was trounced, 17 to 6.

Captain Bob Milling and Tom Garrett each accounted for four of the victors' goals, with Bill Miles adding three. The Orange and Black was never headed, moving out to a 3-1 lead at the end of the first quarter and enjoying an 8-2 margin at the intermission.

Maryland, national champion last spring, will be the Tigers' next opponent Saturday. Ferris Thomsen has his team in Baltimore, cradle of the sport, for a week's scrimmaging prior to the meeting with the Terrapins at College Park.

BALL TEAM NEEDS WORK

Weather a Severe Handicap. Minus badly needed practice and without the services of the player counted on to fill the vital center field assignment, the Princeton baseball team is in North Carolina this week for a four-game southern trip. The home opener is set for Tuesday at 3:30 against Villanova on University Field.

Kept inside by freezing weather and fields that remained soggy with frost and snow, the Tiger diamond squad has been further handicapped by the loss for an indefinite time of fleet Jackie Sullivan. The Kent School alumnus had been counted on to replace last year's captain, Dick Edie, in center field but has been sidelined with a recurrence of the same illness that kept him out of football for several weeks last fall.

Sullivan's ailment is a virus infection that costs him both weight and energy, and his return to the squad is extremely uncertain. Whatever the cause, it is affecting his brother, Jerry, as well, and the situation will cloud the future of both the baseball and football teams. Jerry is a reserve catcher in the spring, a center in football and Jack is a tailback for Dick Colman.

Mike Devine, a standout sophomore, will fill the centerfield slot in the early games, with Captain Mike Ippolito in left and two or three others alternating in right. Better news has come with the availability of Jack Whitehouse, ineligible earlier in the year, for shortstop. His potential at a position where the Tigers have been weak since the days of Jack Blessing and Jim Fairchild early in the '50's is considerable.

Wake Forest on Wednesday, Elon College Thursday, North Carolina State on Friday and Georgetown at Washington on Saturday will provide the Tigers' opposition on the trip. Next week, Villanova on Tuesday will be followed by games at New Brunswick Wednesday against Rutgers and at Easton, Pa., on Saturday against Lafayette. It may be a long time this season before the Tigers draw abreast of the .500 mark.

OUT OF ACTION: Jack Sullivan, counted on by Princeton for centerfield berth, has been sidelined by virus infection.

WILL REPRESENT U.S.A.

in Track Tour of West Africa. Carl E. Brown, Jr. of 28 Birch Avenue, a student at Winston-Salem Teachers College and former Princeton High School track star, has accepted an invitation from the A.A.U. to represent this country on a 28-day tour of West Africa.

Other track stars on the team include Bob Gutowski, holder of the world pole vault record, and Ken Bantum, former national A.A.U. shotput champion. Edward McAllister, half miler from the New York Athletic Club, and Bob Manning, sprinter and hurdler, are also on the American team.

ST. PAUL'S ENDS AT 11-3

Successful Season Completed. A 39-27 victory over an alumni quintet brought St. Paul's basketball season to a close with an 11-3 record. The mark was the best recorded during the three-year coaching regime of Marty Lombardo.

A scheduled contest with Cathedral was cancelled last weekend, the alumni filling in as the opposition. Danny Corvino made 18 points for the graduates but Joe Luhrman paced the school quintet with 19.

Lombardo praised the Cavaliers for their fine team effort during the campaign, noting that only one of the squad's top six players had previous experience in the sport before this season. He announced that an informal contest has been scheduled for Friday night at 7:30, with the school team taking on a combined quintet of faculty members and fathers.

BOWLING NOTES

Standings Change. All first-place teams lost ground in Princeton's major leagues as a result of bowling action last week. Henderson edged into first place in the Mixed League, two points ahead of Rose, Sculerati and Kleiber, all of whom were tied for second spot with 16 wins. Shelton Motors advanced to the top in the "A" League, three points ahead of Rookies, the previous league leader.

Standings in the "B" League were knotted, with three teams, Shelton Motors, Edwards Engraving and Prince Laundro, all deadlocked for first place with 32 wins. In addition there was a three-way tie for second place as Sportsman No. 2, Citelli Electric and Maul Electric all recorded 28 wins apiece.

Decker's fell to second place in the Women's Industrial loop as Citelli's 47 points put that squad four points ahead of the runner-up. Tiger Bus moved into first place in the Women's League, a single point ahead of Nassau Del (6). Tiger Garage held a solid six-point lead over Nassau Service (30) in the Industrial League, while the Physics team topped the ten - team Princeton Faculty League, leading the field by five big wins.

News Of The CHURCHES

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES SET For Coming Week. Women's groups from several Princeton churches have scheduled activities for the coming week.

The Women's Day Committee of First Baptist Church will hold a rummage sale Saturday at the church, 30 Green Street, beginning at 10 a.m.

The Women's Association of Witherspoon Presbyterian Church will meet Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in the Parish House. Guest speaker will be Adam Hochschild, a student at the Pomfret School, who will give an illustrated talk on his experiences in Africa last summer as a member of a scholarship study group.

The Woman's Auxiliary of Trinity Episcopal Church will meet Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. for a coffee hour. The Rev. William A. Eddy, Jr., will continue the discussion of the Book of Common Prayer.

The Rev. Reinhardt Van Dyke, director of the Ministry to Migrants for the New Jersey Council of Churches, will be guest speaker Wednesday at 6 p.m. at a Lenten Family Night program at Second Presbyterian Church. The Women's Guild of Second Church is in charge of the program.

The Princeton Woman's Society of Christian Service will meet next Thursday, April 7, at 8 p.m. in the Methodist Church social hall. Guest speaker will be Dr. Kenneth Maxwell, executive director of the Department of International Affairs of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., who will talk on "Patterns for Peace." Miss Dorothy Compton will lead the devotional program and members of the Heacock-Davis circle will serve as hostesses.

BULLETIN NOTES

The Trustees Aid Society of Mt. Pisgah A.M.E. Church will sponsor a bazaar and a ham and chicken dinner this Thursday from 4 to 7 p.m.

A square dance will be held this Saturday at 8 p.m. at Princeton Methodist Church by the Adult Fellowship. Admission, including refreshments, will be 75 cents each.

A concert of chamber music will be presented Sunday at 8:30 p.m. at the Unitarian Church. The Liberal Religious Youth group of the church will hold a luncheon meeting at noon on Sunday.

The Greater Trenton Baptist Association will hold its monthly hymn sing this Sunday at 9 p.m. at Calvary Baptist Church. This will be the first time the sing has been held in Princeton.

Obituaries

John C. Williams, 57, of 120 Winant Road, died at his home on March 29 of a heart attack. Widely-known throughout New Jersey, he was for a number of years president of L. Bamberger & Co. and more recently had been senior vice-president of a large New York advertising agency.

A resident of Princeton for more than a quarter century, Mr. Williams was a member of the University's Class of 1925. He had been active in its behalf in many ways, serving as president of its alumni council and later as a member of the board of trustees.

Mr. Williams began his career with R. H. Macy, becoming associated with its affiliate, Bambergers, during the 'thirties. He rose to the presidency, later became chairman of the board and was credited with the large department store's expansion to numerous suburban communities, including Princeton.

After leaving Bambergers, Mr. Williams created an advertising agency in Newark under the name of Williams & London. More recently, he had joined Fuller, Smith & Ross in New York, serving as senior vice-president for development.

Last winter, Mr. Williams announced his retirement from the agency field and accepted an appointment as executive consultant of the newly-formed Princeton Chamber of Commerce. He was busily engaged in planning its expansion at the time of his death.

Mr. Williams was active in many business capacities. He was a former director of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Co., the Fidelity Union Trust Co. and remained on the board of the Fireman's Insurance Co. and the Princeton Inn.

He was a former president of the New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce and had continued as one of its directors. He was selected as Newark's Outstanding Citizen in 1946 and in 1953 as New Jersey Business Statesman of the year.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Virginia Cooper Williams; two daughters, Mrs. David McCall and Mrs. Henry C. Gridley, both of New York City, and five grandchildren. Funeral arrangements were incomplete as TOWN TOPICS went to press.

R. Robert Herling, 64, of The Great Road, died March 25 in Princeton Hospital. Director of classification for the State, he was born in Lithuania and had lived here 38 years. He was a member of the class of 1920 at Princeton University, and graduated from Mount Hermon School, Northfield, Mass.

His wife, Mrs. Stella Herling, is his only survivor. The funeral and interment were private.

Edward F. Quinlan, 81, of Lake George, N.Y., died March 23 in Princeton Hospital. He was visiting his sister, Miss Ellen C. Quinlan, and brother, John J. Quinlan, at 219 Nassau Street. He is also survived by another brother, James Quinlan of Amherst, Mass.

Requiem high mass was celebrated at St. Paul's Church, with interment in Evergreen Cemetery, Lake George. Arrangements were under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Mrs. Lena Chamberlin Young, 87, who had lived with her son, Walter Young of Lawrenceville, for the past two years, died March 23 in a Neshanic nursing home. The widow of Walter Young, she served as organist for several Montclair churches over a period of more than 25 years. She was born in Dubuque, Iowa, and had lived in Montclair for 50 years.

In addition to her son, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Jacques Rosenthal of Palm Beach, Fla.; four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Sports In Princeton

Dick Perna, bowling for Edwards Engraving in the "B" League, recorded the high game for the week with a 235. Included in that performance was a 209 game and a 623 series.

That circuit had seven other 200 games last week, with Vince Pirone's 219 and Claude Pinelli's 216 following Perna's performance. Twelve 200 games were racked up in "A" League competition last week, with Dan Bibelle's 227 setting the pace. Other top games were: George Kirby, 224; Fred Goeke, 219; Cliff Robison, 216 and Bill Bathie, 214.

Also, Bill Barnes, 209; Frank Sannino, 208; Nelson Smith, 207; Jack Crawford, 206; Earl Tindall, 202; Charles Dinardo, 200; and Frank Cawley, 212. Bill Sculerati's 211 topped the Industrial League last week. He was followed by Nick Sculerati's 206, Maurice Gledhill, also 206, and Jake Emmons who rolled a 202.

High game in the Princeton Faculty loop was rolled by Mike Scott (216), followed by Walker Bleakney's 214. Ed Grant's 206 and Lars Christiansen's 206. Julie Marcoline led the Women's loop with a 190, while Marilyn Silvester bowled 178, Elizabeth Barclay, 177, and Marilyn Lowe, 175.

Betty Cubberley's 171 was tops in the Women's Industrial circuit. Angie Cifelli racked up a 171, Betty Frazee scored a 170, Peg Brown recorded 169 and Donna Pendyke rolled a 167.

"Building Your Own Home?"

The Princeton Manor Construction Co. will build from your ideas, your architect's plans, or from over 200 designs in our files — on your lot or our land. Consult our list of building sites in the Princeton area. You may use your lot as all or part of the down payment on your new home. Locally owned and managed, the Princeton Manor Construction Co. is currently building twenty to twenty-five quality homes a year. A few of our extra services are unusually favorable financing and free consultation with an interior decorator.

Visit our display Home open every day except Wednesday from noon 'til dusk

From the center of Princeton go east on Nassau St. for 1 mile, turn left on Snowden Lane to Franklin Ave., left 1 block and right on Grover Ave. to 136 Randall Rd. and Display Home.
